From Buffalo, NY

The simplest driving is freeway and I suggest you take 90 South and then take 271 south to 422 East (the freeway, not Chagrin Blvd. the old 422.) The 422 freeway will take you across La Due Reservoir and then, by mostly 2 lane highway, to Parkman (about 8 miles more).

[If you check a map, Route 44 runs parallel to 271 and east of it, so you may pass it on 90 and will cross it on 422, just west of La Due; also 528 runs parallel to and east of 271, from 90 I believe. But especially late in the evening those 2 lane highways with unpredictable horse and buggy traffic at 5 miles an hour can be nerve wracking, so I advise the extra miles to 271 for the speed and ease of driving.]

At the traffic light in Parkman, turn left on 88 and take 88 (also 528 and 168 at that point) North. The farm house is exactly 2 miles from that light. At about 1.5 miles, 88 takes a sharp Right Angle turn to the Right (off 528) Take that. Go down the hill, cross intersection of the dirt road, Hosmer Rd, and the first house on the left as you come up the hill.
